Renee's diverse business background has enabled her to develop rich knowledge and experience of organisational systems and dynamics. In addition to running her own coaching, consulting and facilitation business, Renee has previously led large projects and teams in roles such as Head of Coaching and Leadership with the Institute of Executive Coaching and Leadership (IECL), an industry leader in coaching and leader development in Asia Pacific. Prior professional experience also includes key client account and sales roles in a range of industries including recruitment, pharmaceuticals and industrial supplies.

EXPERIENCE

Renee's coaching approach is highly supportive with a healthy dose of constructive challenge. A coaching environment is created to encourage learning – learning about self, others and the systems in which we operate. Coaching sessions are both pragmatic and reflective, often exploring working rhythms, thinking patterns, values, strengths, practices, habits and narratives. Renee style is described as steady and calm, thought provoking and intuitive. She adjusts her style and approach to each client, acknowledging they are resourceful, capable and unique.

Renee has been part of the coaching industry for over 17 years, commencing her training as coach in 2009. Coaching engagements span a range of industries and sectors, primarily working with senior and executive level leaders and teams who are eager to learn and grow personally and professionally. Her clients appreciate the trust Renee builds and the space created for them to think differently and take new action towards their desired future. In addition to 1:1, group and team coaching, Renee is also a qualified mentor, supervisor and trainer with a passion for developing other coaches. Renee is a seeker of new experiences. She is a world traveller, music and dance enthusiast, active community member and volunteer. Renee took up playing football (soccer in Australia) in her mid-40's and plans to play for many years to come.
