Marc combines extensive global management and coaching experience with 25 years' experience as an international business leader, managing director and CEO. Marc's coaching style is empathetic, results focused and rooted in relationships of trust. Through his humour and challenging, provocative approach, Marc's clients discover transformative growth, for achieving both business goals and personal development.

Experience

Marc started his career as an industrial engineer at Philips. Following his MBA, Marc focused on sales and marketing and general management for pharmaceutical corporations such as Roche and Bayer. In 2007 Marc took responsibility, as CEO, for a global dermatology company with headquarters in Germany and turned the company around. Marc currently holds non-executive and advisory board positions in the Healthcare industry.

Throughout his career Marc has championed talent and leadership development in order to drive change, competitive innovation, and business performance. He has built a strong reputation for maximising both the potential of leaders and their management teams.

Through his experience Marc has a deep understanding of the leadership requirements of international, multicultural organisations. He is also passionate about start-ups and supporting entrepreneurs. From 2013, Marc has been a start-up investor, advisor and executive coach, and, in 2015, he co-founded a robotics start-up in Berlin. In his role as coach he supports clients through the challenges of highly dynamic and uncertain business environments.

Marc is married with four children. He has lived and worked in France, Canada, Brazil, Argentina, Switzerland and Germany.
